Foreword

H.R. 213

This 1964 TIARA has been written and published for the benefit of you, the students, to read and enjoy and forever cherish the memories which it contains.

The structure of Pius X is based on the supervision and guidance of the faculty which is the living soul of the school. The student body is only the substance, the flourishing members united as one, and the true spirit kept alive.

As our theme and a symbol, we have taken a candle to represent the students, and its holder, the Administration. Gradually melting through the four years, the freshmen burn tapers down through the sophomore and junior era, to the final stage as seniors. This level, nearest to the base, supports the others and is the last to melt away. As the dazzling flame reaches its pinnacle, graduation cannot extinguish it, because somehow, somehow, this eternal flame enkindled at the time of Baptism, cannot die.

Nancy - To a real true-blue friend. We use to have a real swell time when you went to O.R.H. Then I never saw you again. Well now you go here & I only saw you in History class last year. This year I only see you at lunch. Since you're much more smarter than me. You are in the Honor group. Well now the year is over. I HOPE to see you next year. Have a great summer & enjoy it immensely. May God Bless - MARY SPENIER

We Made

Our Home Here

Dedication

To thee, Pope John, we give praise. To thee, high honor and glory is due. You followed the footsteps of those before you and set in the trail of time eternal, prints where your feet have trodden. They have led you not astray, but rather into the fields of the rich and poor, the good and the bad, and through treacherous forests clouded with perils, and blocked by invaders. Although your own skin you have torn, you persevered to seek out your lost lamb, carry him in your tired arms, and restore him to your flock.

All this you have done and your eagerness to continue shall be inherited by your successors as it was handed down to you. Few shall surpass you, Pope John; for few have your love of fellow-man, whoever he may be.

As you have lived you have died, in grace and sincerity, in kindness and charity, and surely in the heart of God. From your labors, we shall bear fruits; your buds are now blooming, fully ripe and rich, pure as the soul of Mary, and clean as the cloak of Christ.

Your wishes shall not be unreckoned, your ideas be not obstructed. We hail thee with supreme reverence and devotion as the Pontiff on earth and the Pedestal in heaven, guiding us along life's way to our everlasting goal. Pope John, remember us, the students of Pius X High School, in your wealth of grace and victory with God.

To you, Pope John XXIII, we dedicate this TIARA, 1964.

To Pope John XXIII

Pope of the Ecumenical Council, Vatican II, John XXIII blesses all members of His Church—the sick, the poor, the able-bodied—with his characteristic gestures and Christ-radiating smile.

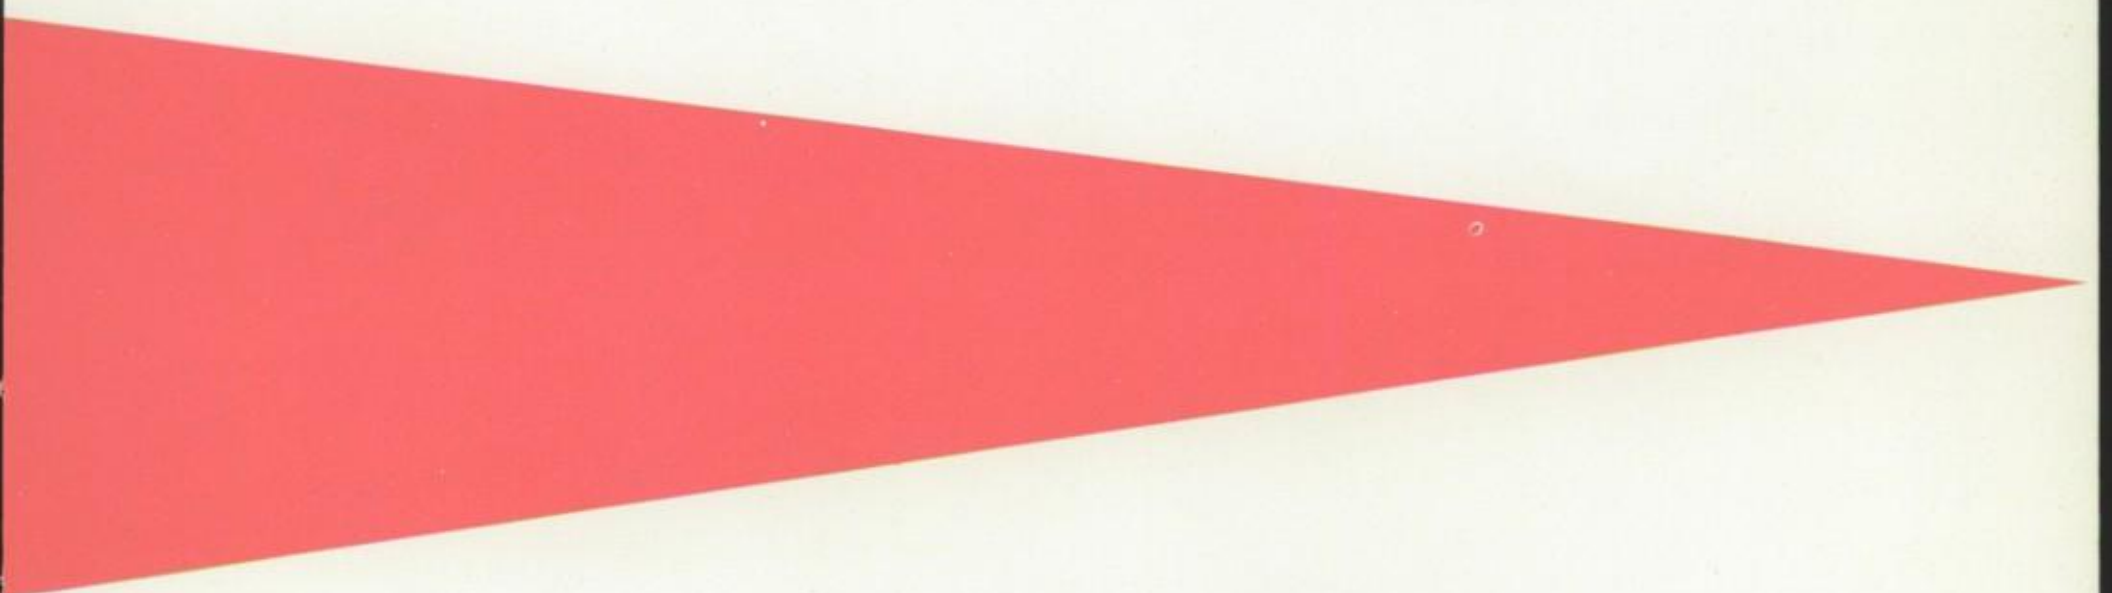

ADMINISTRATION

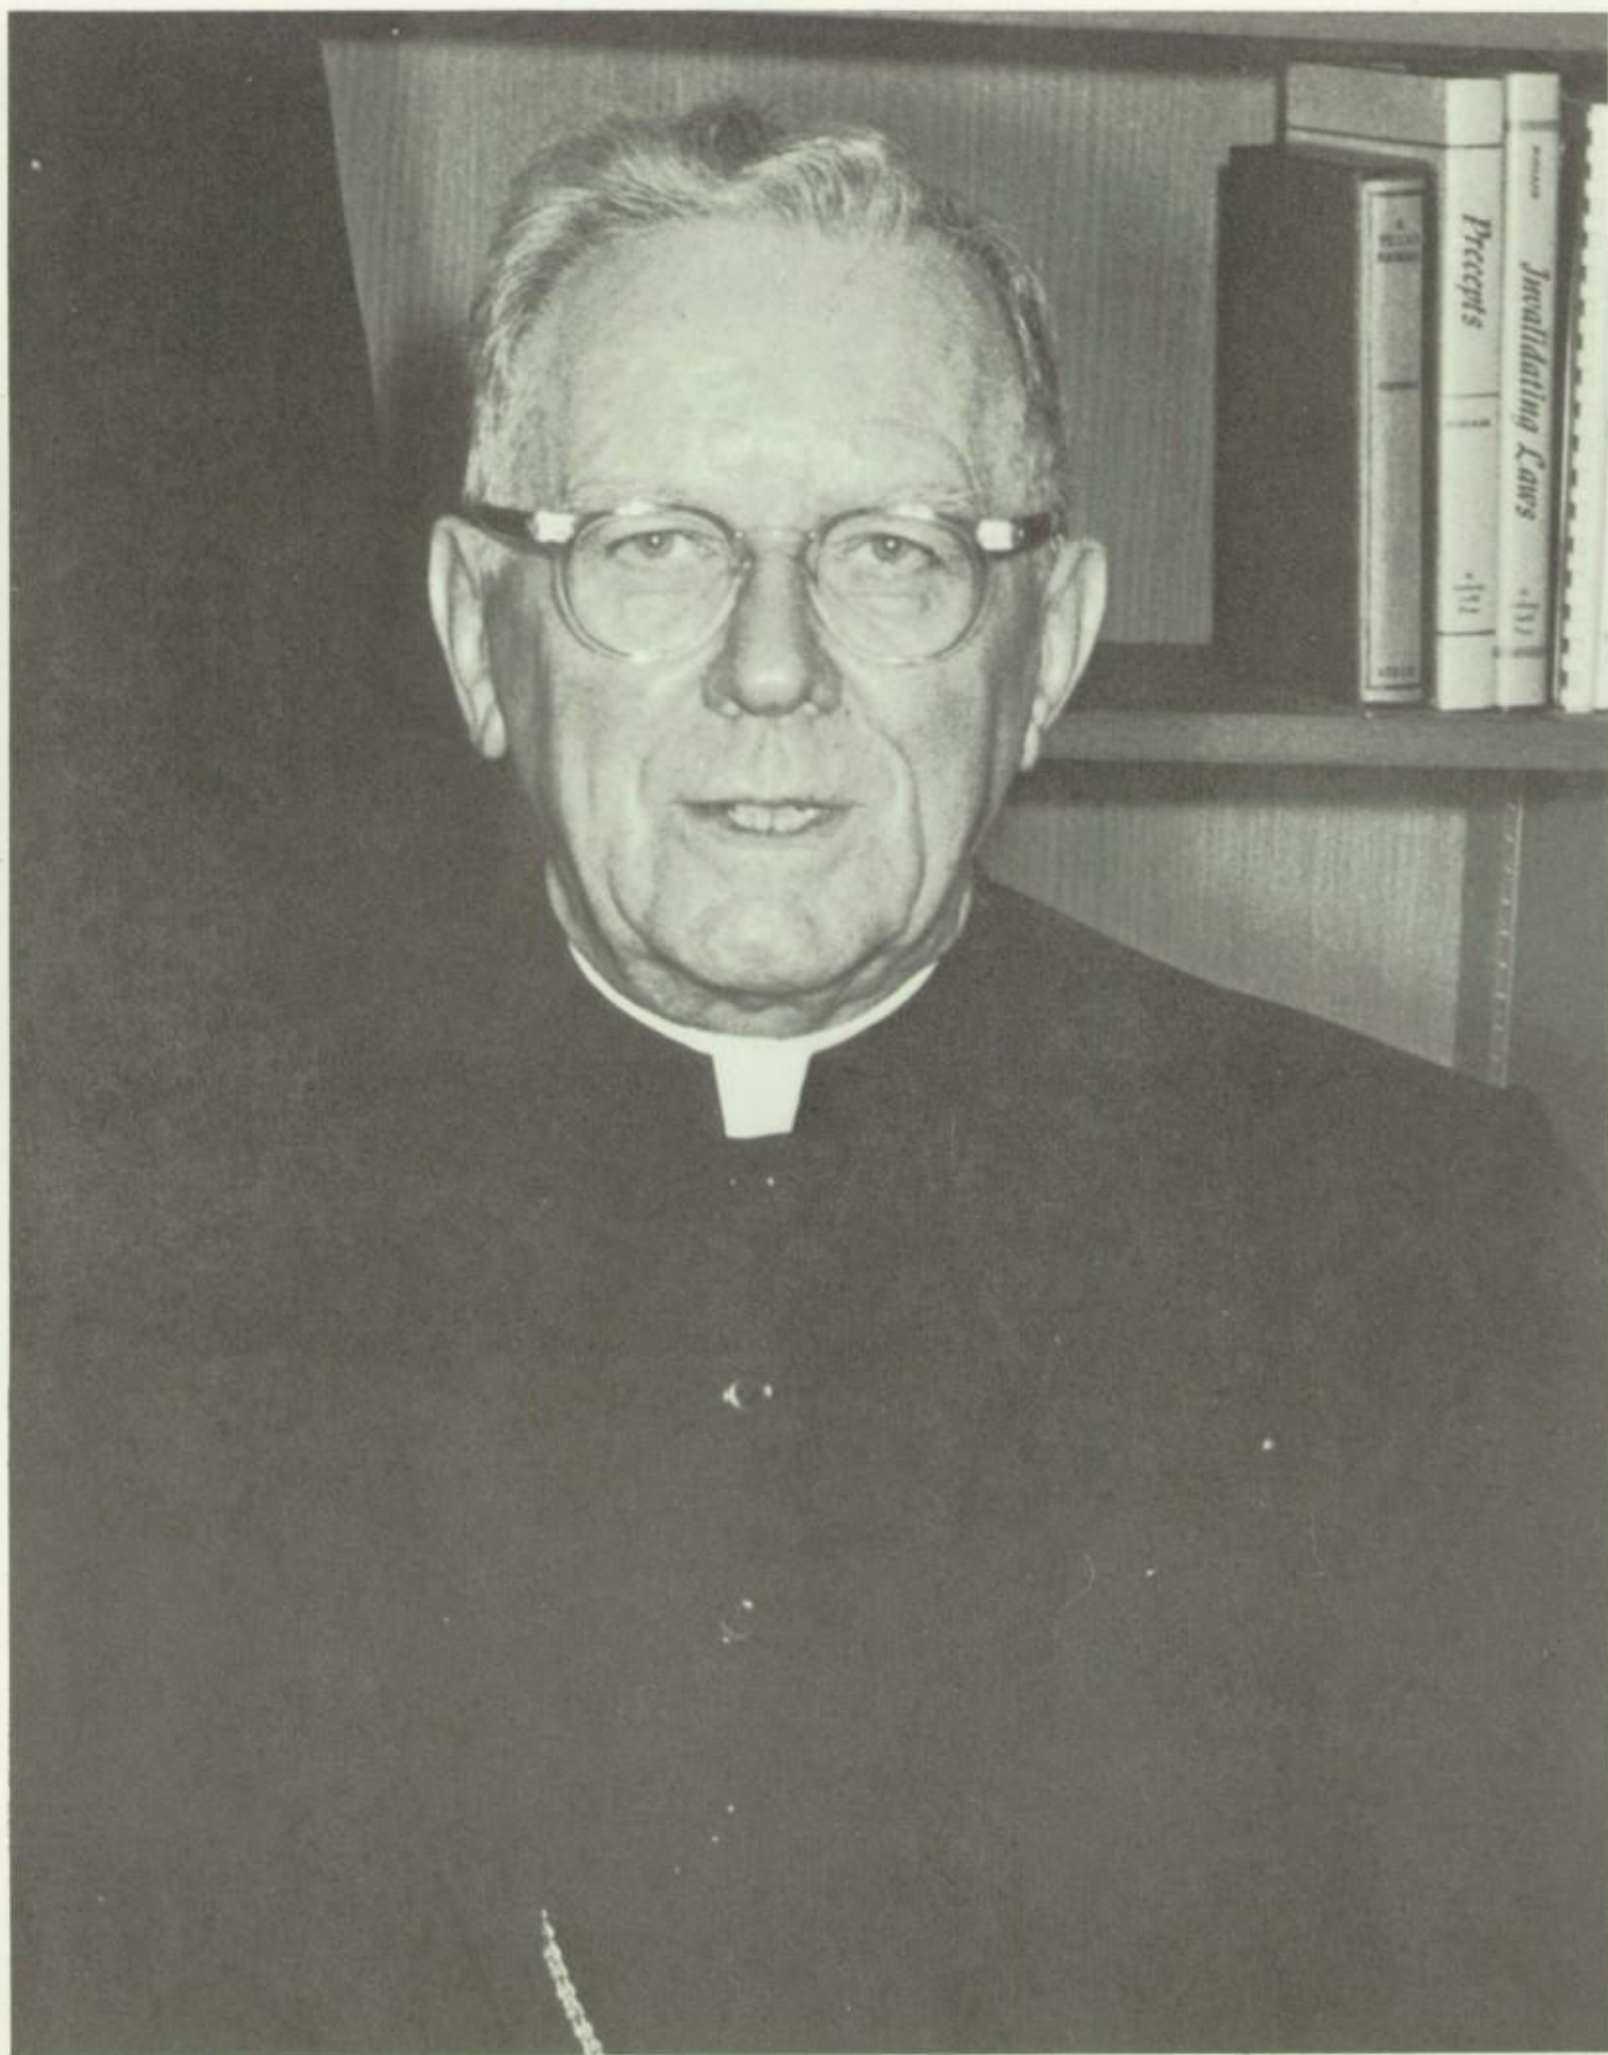

In efforts to make Pius X a memorable school and an unparalleled institution, our faculty members strive to instill in the minds of the students a devotion to God, a loyalty to spirit, and a desire for knowledge.

As the sole structure and foundation of Pius X, the Administration symbolizes the base of the candle, firmly upholding the united classes and encouraging individual strength. The framework, the base, and the soul of our school, the Pius X faculty are teachers, counselors and friends.

Administration

His Eminence, James Francis Cardinal McIntyre

An archdiocesan school, Pius X High School was one of many Catholic high schools to fall under the direct guidance of Cardinal McIntyre, Archbishop of Los Angeles.

Monsignor Sharpe

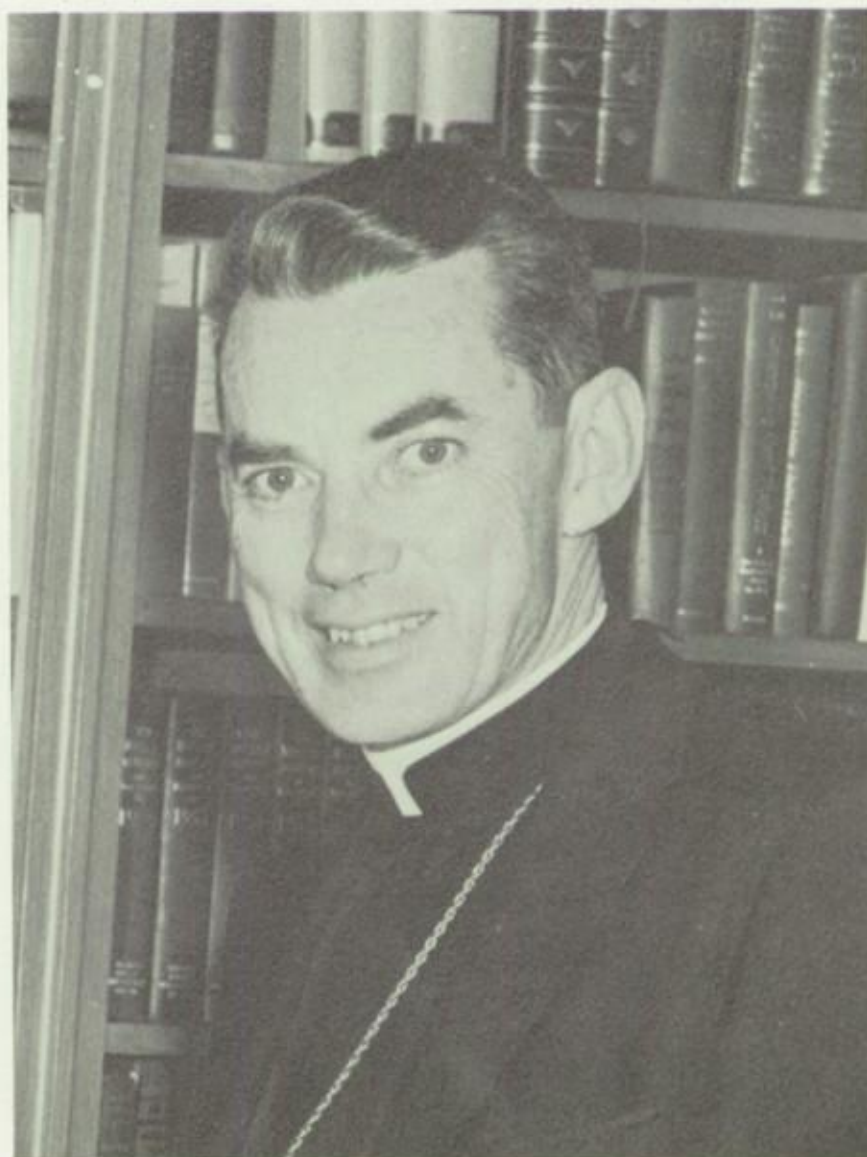

Bishop Ward

Bishop Manning

Authorized

Overseers

Cardinal McIntyre, Bishop Manning, Bishop Ward and Monsignor Sharpe are men dedicated to the idea of keeping God in education. It is through their tireless efforts that Catholic schools, like Pius X, are maintained. It is through their devotion that the students of Pius X are receiving the fine Catholic education afforded only a small percentage of Southern California's Catholic population.

Our Principal

My Dear Students,

As students attending Pius X High School, you have been given the privilege of a complete education. By this we mean that besides the best there is to offer in all the academic subjects, you have also received spiritual and moral training based on eternal values and the real purposes of life.

This kind of an education should help you face the life that will be yours in a world that is going through changes such as has not been seen before in the history of mankind. A world that is sick with its struggles, needs, and cries out for the Christian and Catholic principles that you have learned at Pius X.

You are charged with making the richness of intellectual growth and sound spirituality that you have received reflect itself in your lives so as to bring your solid principles to others and accomplish what was so much the desire of our saintly patron "to restore all things in Christ."

Father Cranham

Altruistic

Administration

Father Walsh, Vice-Principal

As vice-principal of Pius X High School, Father Walsh artfully carried the burden of discipline and order prevalent throughout the student body. As overseer and protector, he performed duties concerning the benevolence and well being of each student.

Father O'Brien, Dean of Boys

Father George O'Brien, Dean of Boys, performs one of his morning duties, dictating the attendance list.

As Student Body and Student Council moderator, Father consumes his time assisting these organizations and their officers to forward the betterment of each. Among these duties, Father was also the school calendar co-ordinator, who organized all activities held during the year.

Sister Gertrude Mary, Dean of Girls

Her second year as Dean of Girls, Sister Gertrude Mary did an excellent job of supervising the feminine half of Pius X's Student Body. Her duties included checking morning attendance and enforcing the grooming regulations.

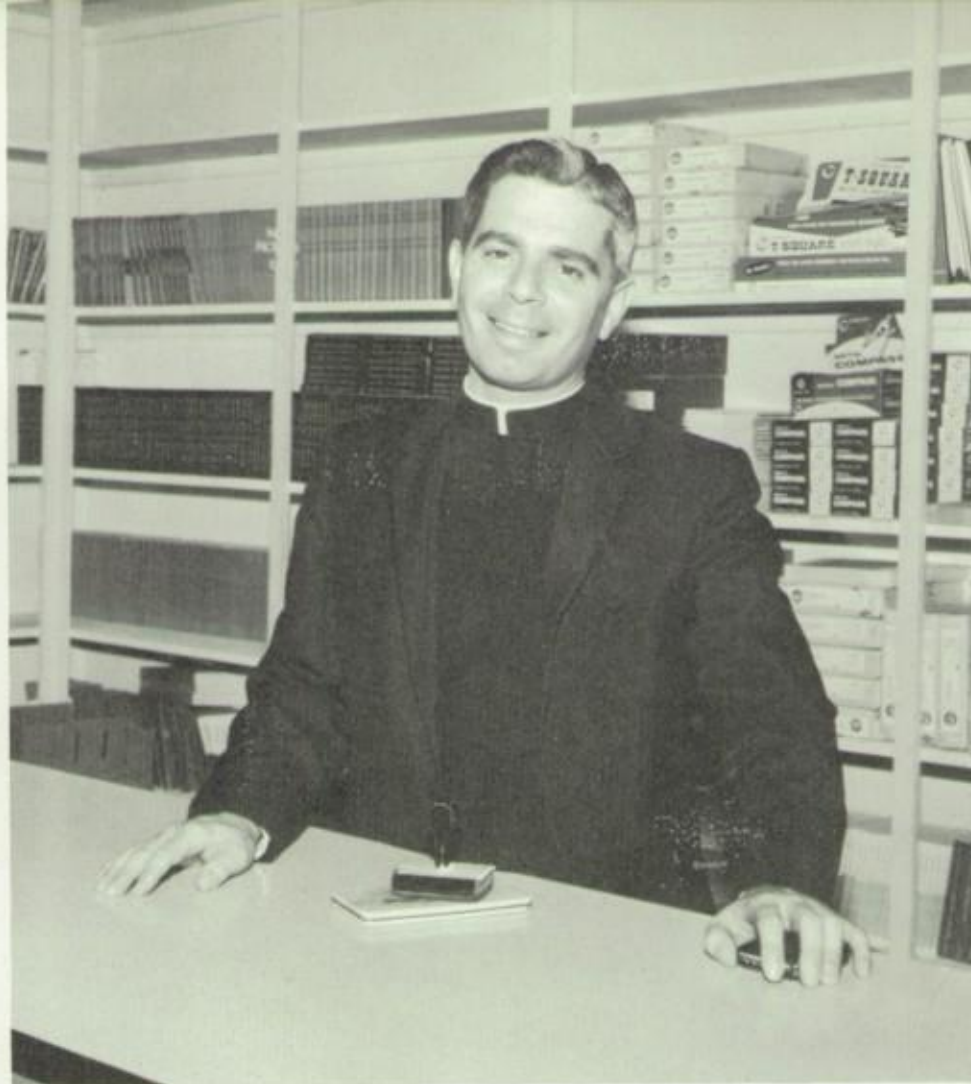

Invaluable Instructors

Father Keefe, Dean of Studies

A new system of class grouping was organized this year under the capable leadership of Father Keefe, Dean of Studies. He also assisted students with any major program problem that confronted them. In accordance with his office, Father informed Seniors about college entrance requirements and scholarship requirements.

Father Alvarez, Assistant Dean of Studies, Bookstore Manager

As Assistant Dean of Studies and Manager of the Student Bookstore, Father Alvarez acquired a liberal knowledge concerning the academic program of each student. Acting as a representative for the faculty, Father procured many new textbooks for the benefit of the Student Body and their future education.

Sister Marie Fidelis, Assistant Dean of Girls

In her initial year at Pius X, Sister Marie Fidelis was given the responsibility of forming good Christian ideals in the minds of Pius X's feminine half.

Issuing uniform passes, as Sister is observed below, was her daily occupation before each school day commenced.

Father Cokus, Senior Class Moderator

For a second year, Father Cokus was accountable for the welfare of the Senior Class. For many seniors he served as a final preceptor before they faced the adult world of today. His task was difficult and required many hours of deliberation and discussion with Senior officers. He is pictured above with Leo Klein, Senior Class President.

Father Kramer, Sophomore Class Moderator

A circumventor of the sophistry of our times, jovial Father Kramer was quite popular at Pius X. Along with the Sophomore Class officers, whom he advised, he organized a "Hootenanny" which was a resounding success. With the Junior and Senior Religion Classes, his novel approach to the subject won him many admirers. This attitude carried over to the parents who attended the Theology Class he inaugurated in the evenings.

Competent Class Advisers

Father Neuman, Freshman Class Moderator

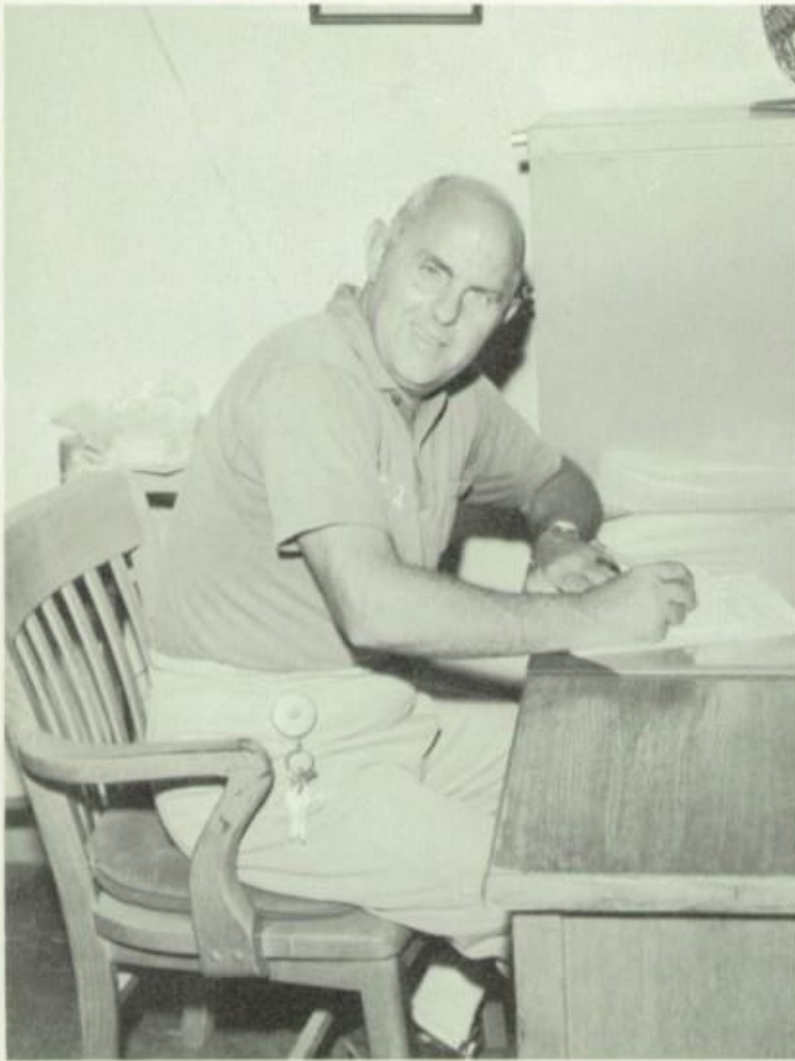

We were fortunate indeed this year to have with us on the faculty of Pius X a new teacher. Father Neuman came from England and arrived in this country barely in time to acquaint himself with his new surrounding. One of his first duties was apprising the incoming Class of '67 about high school life.

Mr. Clayton Meyer, Junior Class Moderator

The organizing abilities of Mr. Meyer were put to the test this year in helping the Junior Class as their advisor. The Junior-Senior Prom and the selection of the Class Ring were but two of the difficult problems put under his able care. He also found time to coach the Drama Club and fill the shoes as C.S.F. Moderator.

Mr. Ray Heideman, Athletic Director

Mr. Heideman's fifth year at Pius X saw him fulfill the duties of Athletic Director. His Official duties required that he assign a basic physical education course to the gym classes and schedule athletic meets. In his spare time, and only after he had performed the above duties, Mr. Heideman coached the Varsity Football team and moderated the Lettermen's Club.

Mrs. Gough, Secretary

Mrs. Gough, seen here admitting Patricia Godfrey to school, was the person responsible for organizing the schedules of new students. Without her assistance, in the studies office, Father Keefe would not have had time to devote himself to his office.

Miss Peggy Boland and Mrs. Robataille

As exemplified by this photo, the position of Pius X's secretaries held by Miss Peggy Boland and Mrs. Robataille was a hectic one. Assisting with the office work are Susie Harrison, Carol Maiolfi, and Dan Ashbrook. These secretaries along with Mrs. Szabo, and Mrs.

Van Lierop, who are not pictured, deserve the thanks of faculty and students for performing a tedious job with efficiency and manner beyond the call of duty.

CAFETERIA STAFF

Mrs. Jim Rodden and Mrs. Mary MacGoldrick have discovered one of the many ways to a teacher's heart. They seem to know just what meals are best to keep a happy and contented faculty. The results of their carefully prepared meals are felt as much by the thankful students as they are by the satisfied faculty.

CUSTODIANS

Who's got the cleanest school in Downey? Why, the students who walk the halls of Pius X of course. Students and faculty have every right to be proud of the appearance of their school, thanks to the care and hard work of the faithful custodians, Mr. John Carroll, Mr. Karl Englund, Mr. Michael Wilson, and Mr. Charles Poindexter.

"Appeased appetites make for better students." This seems to be the motto of our cheerful cafeteria cooks who make lunch the only "class" that the students hate to have come to an end. Students are offered a large selection of taste tempting meals, and snacks are carefully prepared, and served with a smile by the cafeteria members: Mrs. Rose Zimmer, Mrs. C. Ducharme, Mrs. Sauerwein and Mrs. Helen Renaldo.

Associated

The students of Pius X hold something dearly in common; the love of their school. With this mark of unity, they have captured a vain possession which is traditionally and apprehensively handed down to succeeding generations.

The senior class partakes of a role as Spirit-leaders. Their influential guidance affects the underclassmen and impels them to follow. It is the obligation of the Seniors to set pace—exemplify virtues—and carry them on through the morrow.

Symbolic of the top portion of the candle, their time is lessening and the tallow is melting. At graduation, the pinnacle of memories is achieved, and a new mark is apparent—the juniors.

This succeeding class also has a duty: to support and endow their love, and prepare their class to be leaders. Having completed three years of high school, they have been disciplined in the attitudes and responsibilities as students and must set forth to apply them. The wax diminishes as the Juniors complete these duties accepted and achieved.

Third on the candle-scale, and gradually ascending, are the Sophomores. They have been indoctrinated in the fundamental principles and are eager to continue their education and gain recognition. As the flame ebbs to the final level, a fresh, young body appears.

Green and budding, the freshman class entered high school uncertain and insecure. But as they develop in spirit and mature in mind, they grow to know and love Pius X and cherish these days in their hearts.

It is without doubt that the spirit of tradition is continually sustained through the years, and upheld courageously by every class. This significant candle may melt, but the soul of Pius X shall live on.

Senior Résumé

All good things must come to an end; and, as the grande finale drew to a close, the graduating class of 1964 sadly departed, clinging to the beloved memories of high school years at Pius X.

Initiating blessings as enthusiastic freshmen, the class got underway by electing officers: Tom Jacobs, Mary Ellen Farwell, Sue Thompson, and Tom Budds. Frosh Valentine prince and princess were happily chosen as Paul Shaheen and Betsy Northridge, who reigned lowest in royalty. To prove themselves as a deserving freshman class, they sponsored the Senior Farewell Dance, a semi-formal affair, a week before graduation. "...such were buds of a blossom."

As quite-elated sophomores, the class of '64 commenced its Junior Varsity year headed by officers Don Gay, Karen McGowan, Sharon McDonald, and Mark Mitchell. Through the support of these leaders, the class published its first paper, SOPH PRESS, which featured activities, people, and J. V. games. Valentine prince and princess Larry Paul and Judy D'Onofrio ruled at the Dance of Hearts. 1961-62 Junior Varsity cheerleaders were Donna Weselis, Sharon Moen, and Betsy Northridge; while the songsters were Dobie Johnston, Jan Geraths, and Nancy Mullins. Leaping at Varsity center, towering Jim LaCour lettered in Varsity basketball, the only soph on the team, while the Warriors bounded to third place in All Catholic competition. The first class picnic, moderated by Fr. Boudreau, took place at Irvine Park the end of May; and as a privilege to the sophomores, a dance was held in the gym Prom night "...as the twig is bent, so grows the tree."

Full benefits as upper-class juniors rewarded the '64's with spirit, unity, and a joy of belonging. Officers Paul Shaheen, Karen McGowan, Judy D'Onofrio, and Bill Jurewitz labored long hours to fulfill the Junior plans. Sharon McDonald and Tom Budds were striving student body officers. All worked continually to make the Junior Christmas Dance a success, which led to the Junior-Senior Prom, "Floral Rhapsody" at Cerritos J. C. St. Patrick over-rated St. Valentine that year and a dance in his honor produced prince and princess of Leprechaun Village, "Erin" Dick Zembal, and "Lass" Disa Glenn. Having remembered the joy and fun of the previous class picnic, all juniors elected Irvine Park as traditional class romping grounds. At the time they were just beginning to realize the wide focus of horizons which lay before them, and then were "...a single blossom in a field of flowers."

This past year without the guidance of senior officers Leo Klein, Mary Ellen Farwell, Pat Ainsworth, George Phillips, and Student Body officers Paul Shaheen, Sue Thompson, Linda Uribe, and Bill Jurewitz, such events as the Homecoming Dance "Moonlight and Roses", the initial soc-hop, and the traditional Irvine Picnic could not have been possible. The delight and surprise of Homecoming to Betsy Northridge-Queen, Jan Berry, Peggy Frederic, Kay Hollywood, and Mary Kellett, Princesses, was truly a moment cherished in all hearts, as are all the highlights of high school years. "Spirit, unity, and joy of belonging" is vibrantly possessed by this outstanding class, and shown in undying support of Varsity promoters: Pat Bradshaw, Mark Mitchell, Mike Mansfield, Jan Berry, Peggy Frederic, and Betsy Northridge. The fidelity of the Alma Mater has been kept melodiously alive, even if in off-key harmony, rooted in all hearts, led by Carol Kauffman, Susi Harrison, and junior associates Kathy Rose and Cathy Perrizo. At the climax of the football season, Warrior Paul Shaheen snatched the enviable title of "Most Valuable Player of the Catholic League" adding to the honor and spirit of his supporting class. Loyalty is the key, laughter is the support, and love is the foundation. "...a rose may wither and die, but love shall never fade away."

The yearbooks closed: the hall lights dimmed. And with a final click of a locker, each senior, with chin held high; eyes misty and set: for the last time walked the pathways trodden by many before him; leaving his mark of loyalty and love. Exits . . . into life, prepared.

JUNIORS

For the Class of '65 their Junior year was one of excitement, responsibility and difficulty. In this year they selected and received their class ring, the insignia of an upper classman. As upper classmen they were looked upon to set good examples and be leaders for the Sophomores and Freshmen.

In accordance with tradition, the Juniors sponsored the memorable Junior-Senior Prom, the highlight of the entire year.

A united Sophomore Class was led through its second year of high school life by the Sophomore Class Officers: President Pat Hynes, Vice-President Jo Mae Kunz, Secretary Jo Lynn Evans and Treasurer Bob Boldizar.

SOPHOMORES

With one year of high school life behind them the Sophomores accepted the challenge of Geometry and other rigorous courses with vitality. No longer were they Freshmen, the lowest form of civilization, but Sophomores and proud of it. As the Class of '66 they were determined to be tops, in every respect. The Sophomores sponsored a strictly Sophomore "Hoote-nanny" which was a resounding success, as was their class paper, the Sophomore Semaphore, and other activities they attempted as a class.

As president of their homerooms, Darlene Turgeon, Bob Overzyl, Mary Gremer, Steve Cook, Theresa Kindschi, Kenny Clark, Claudia Berryman, Patrick Kelly and Jan O'Reiley shared the responsibility of leading approximately 340 novice high school students through a year of novel academic and social experiences at Pius X.

Freshmen

For the Class of '67 their first year at Pius X proved to be a year of excitement and intrigue. When they first entered the doors of Pius X they discovered that they, and not the amino acid, were the lowest form of life. Despite the title that they had been given, the class went forward with eager anticipation to meet any challenge placed before them. In both the magazine and mission drive they were well represented and ranked high. With such a fine start in high school life the class proved that they wanted and would eventually hold the title "best class at Pius X."

ATHLETICS

The focal point of excitement and buzzing activity throughout the year is the competitive sports events. The football thrill, basketball excitement, baseball fascination and track suspense stimulated the spirit and pride of the students and inevitably boost their moral character. As long as there are sports, there is an undying stir of anticipation, provoking the desire to win.

The candle is highlighted by a crown of shimmering flame which represents the sports activities each year. The blaze, always aglow, is compared to our spirit. If there are defeats, the light flickers low and may be extinguished through abandonment of hope. But by succeeding achievements its radiance revives and enthusiasm rallies the soul of the students. It is these pupils who pillar the strength of the candle, the spirit of the school, and keep alive its glowing flame.

A Tribute

Coaches are the backbone and brains behind every team. It is through them that the team gets its orders, directions, faith, zeal and sometimes even tongue lashings. Pius X has had more than its share of good fortune regarding its coaches. Through no small effort of theirs, Pius X has produced outstanding teams.

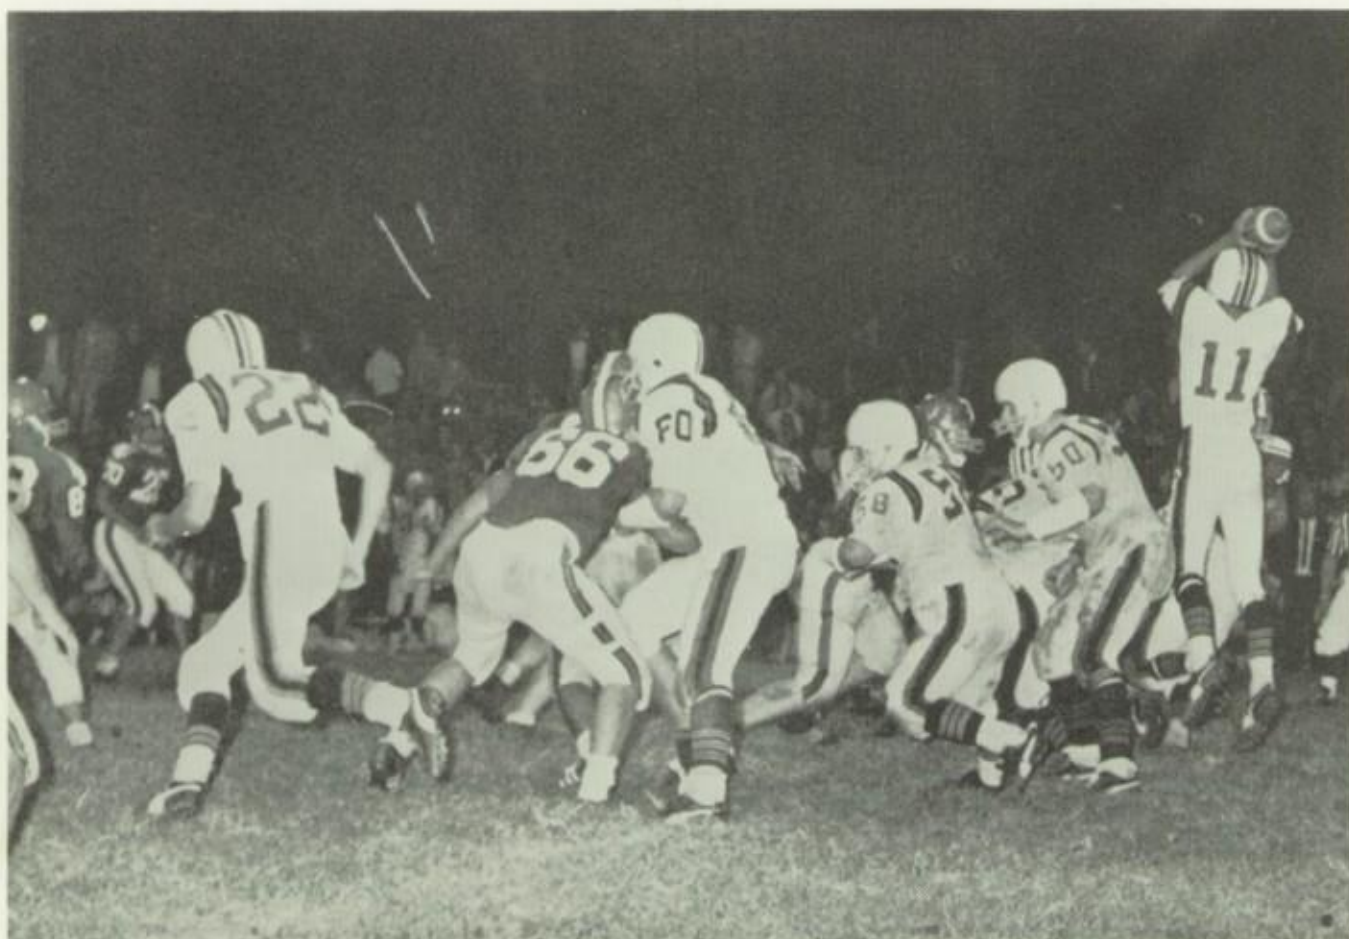

Strenuous work on the part of coaches and team alike, led to hard fought victories and defeats. Whatever their private feelings may have been, each coach instilled his will to win in his respective team, the zeal with which each team played demonstrated this.

It is to the coaches then, that faculty, friends and students say, "Thank You," and "Well Done."

St. Anthony's

Good defense enabled the St. Anthony Saints to defeat our Pius X Warriors Nov. 1, by the score of 19-14. The Warriors showed a good running game but their passing and pass catching was a little off. John Rosales played one of his finest running games against some linemen who were 50 pounds heavier. Again Paul Shaheen played a good game packing the pigskin. The Warriors scored on runs of 20 yards by John Rosales and a one yard plunge by Paul Shaheen. Mike McBride, Ted Vivilacqua, Jim LaBrose, Rick Majchrzak, Rick Becker, and Calvin Hodges all played good defensive games and made St. Anthony take to the air. All night these six boys tackled and broke up scoring opportunities. Even on offense they played a good game paving the way for the running backs. Many scoring opportunities were broken by unidentified St. Anthony linemen who were 6'7" and 6'6" respectively. Paul ended the game in a Pius X manner by being stopped on the seven yard line when the gun went off ending the game. On the last play Pius fullback Paul Shaheen took a handoff from Ron Rodriguez and fought hard but was stopped before he could hit paydirt.

ORGANIZATIONS

As the long day passes students are abundantly kept occupied with the humdrum of recurring events that methodically befall them. As they ramble from class to class, to lunch, to homeroom, to class, to gym and to class, they are participating in a plan which was put into action by many before them.

Their interest and zeal for this school are displayed through the organizations and clubs which profit and flourish by their membership. In addition, dances such as Homecoming Prom, Valentine, Sadie Hawkins, etc., show the effect of industrious labor and perseverance.

As the flame grows higher, and spirit increases, the wax of the years melts slowly down and leaves behind joyous memories which are claimed as tradition. They are a luminous guide to those who follow; and without these memories the soul of tradition would be without life.

Activities

Student Body President Paul Shaheen

Associated Student Body Officers

Associated Student Body President, Paul Shaheen, has confidently led the Student Body through the year in activities athletic as well as patriotic and spiritual. Student Body officers Sue Thompson, Vice-President; Linda Uribe, Secretary; and Bill Jurewitz, Treasurer; have shown strength in uniting the school, through the guidance of the faculty members and the co-operation of the students.

The Student Control, under the direction of Sister Clementia Marie and Father Walsh, obtained many new responsibilities. Their authority stretched from the halls between classes, to the cafeteria during lunch, to the parking lot after school. Throughout the year, the Student Control, affectionately referred to as the "Fink Control," did a fine job in retaining the order on campus.

Religious Moments on Campus

Trust

When I see my friends, one after another leave me, you are with me.

And when I continue along this lonely way, you are with me.

Yes, when I am completely abandoned in life, you are with me.

Then do I feel your nearness, my Lord; you are with me.

And though the battle reach staggering heights within me, you are with me.

You see me when my heart sorely pains me; you are with me.

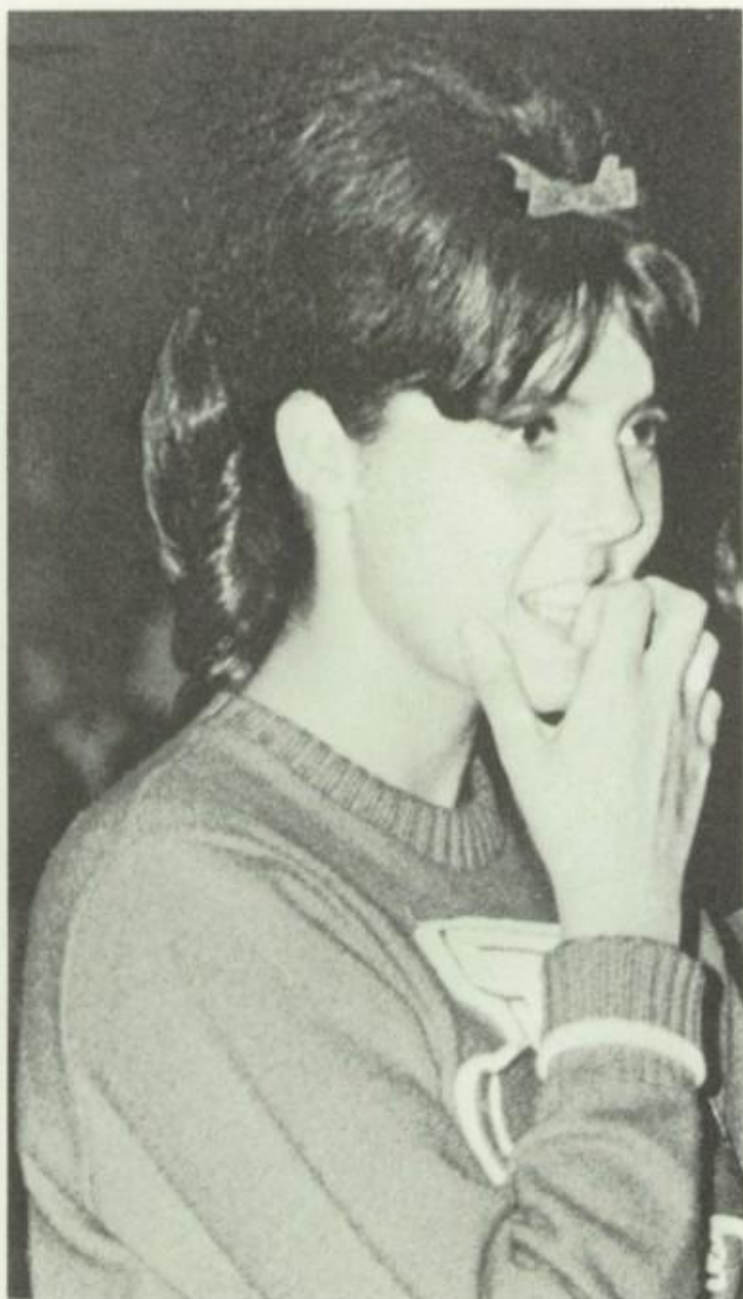

You hear me when I flee to you in fear of death; you are with me.

You support me, when parched with thirst I cannot go on; you are with me.

You will lead me till one day I shall be with you forever; for you are with me.

Betsy Northridge, cheerleader, anxiously awaits the dubious outcome of the football game.

"Please, please make the point", pleads Cheerleader Mark Mitchell in a characteristic pose.

"No—it can't be!" Carol Kauffman looks crestfallen over a misplay by the Warriors.

"Who we gonna beat tonight? Yea, team . . ." Cheerleaders Mark Mitchell, Pat Bradshaw, Nancy Cannon and Mike Mansfield claim ASB support with the help of the songleaders in the background.

Moments
On Campus*

"Hey, Donna—we're having our picture taken!" exclaims George Phillips to dancing partner Donna Brown.

Merry

Mary Kellett also saw the cameraman. Her partner, John Benadom discreetly keeps his back to the camera.

For the technique of an intricate dance step watch Joe Gruner who performed at the Sadie Hawkins dance. Yes, he had a partner—Theresa Gneo.

Moments on Campus

Sandy Owen

Jim Solo

Their dancing ability enabled them to win first prize at the Sadie Hawkins.

The evening was highlighted by the crowning of the queen, Betsy Northridge. Princesses Mary Kellet, Kay Hollywood, Peggy Frederic, and Jan Berry pose prettily after the Coronation on the night of the Homecoming Dance held at Bateman Hall in Lynwood.

"Moonlight and Roses" — a beautiful name for a wonderful dance enjoyed by members of the alumni along with many of the present student body.

Princess Betsy Northridge escorted by Dean Donnellon makes her way to the podium where the announcement of the Homecoming Queen 1963 was revealed.

Todd Beckley tells all why he should be named the Queen, as George Phillips presides as Master of Ceremonies at the Homecoming Rally held at the student assembly.

Honor Moments on Campus

Her Royal Majesty Betsy takes the ceremonial ride around the football field after her election to royalty.

"Call me Bud, but sell those magazines!" started off the annual magazine drive at Pius X in November.

Work Moments on Campus

The prize to be given to the winning homeroom in the magazine contest was a large, stuffed dog who was later named Callidus Canes by Father Alvarez and his Sophomore Religion Class.

Famous Homecoming Queen "candidates" are escorted to their respective places of honor at the rally which was to start off the festivities of the Homecoming weekend.

Fun Moments on Campus

Pretty shoes and a lovely gown are all a part of the excitement of a homecoming dance elegance, but it sure feels good to take them off!

Small Fry Candy-Candettes helped make the homecoming half-time a huge success. Here Trissie Kellet and Debbie Frederic keep time to drill Team routine.

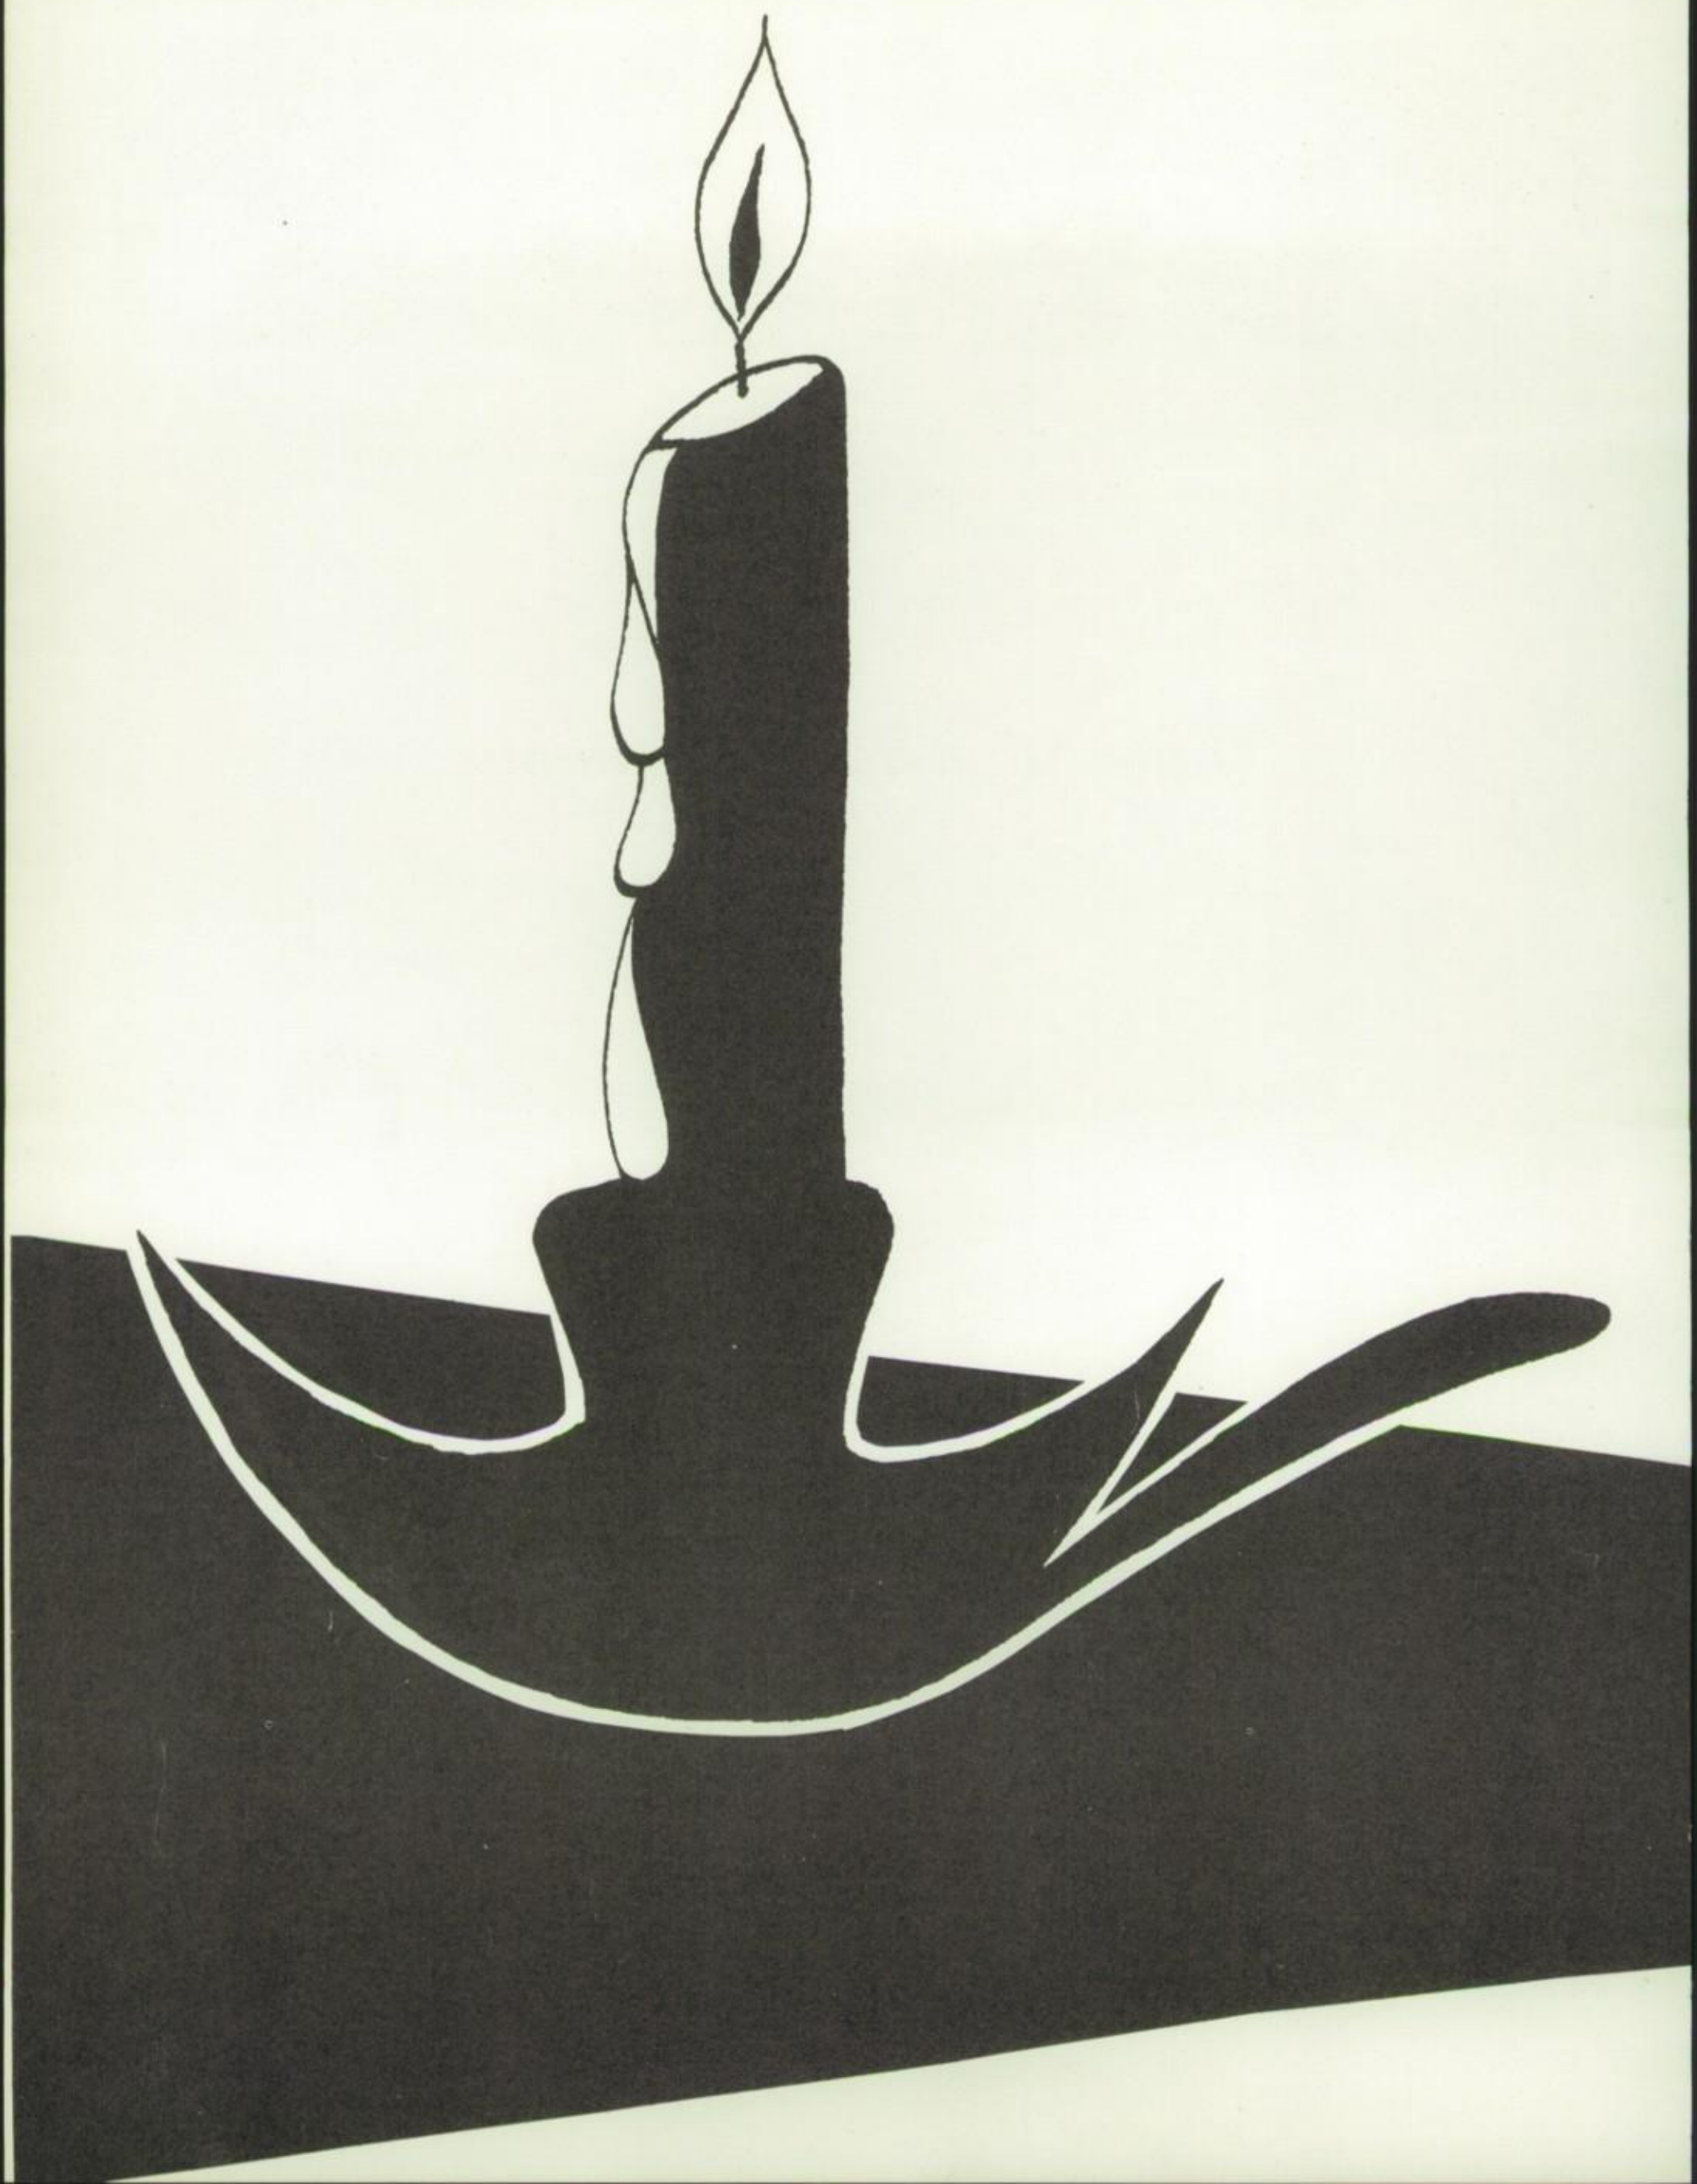

Quiet and solitude can be achieved, in the hall, at a locker, in the cafeteria, on the P.E. courts, within any confines of school or classroom, even on the Senior Square with friends! Quiet and solitude which are needed by all in whatever state of life they might be to give them pause in decisions—small or world-shaking—whichever the case may be.

Quiet Moments on Campus

An era has come to an end and with it the height of the candle diminished. Seniors graduate and take their place in the world leaving behind them a tradition for underclassmen to follow. Every member of the Class of '65 takes on the responsibility that those before them shared and those after them will face. Sophomores and Freshmen step up in high school life. For a while the joy of attending football, basketball and baseball games cease, then in September take on new life. Organizations will discontinue their activities which will be resumed in the fall. But for now the year that has come to an end, the year 1963-1964 spent at Pius X High School, a life influence is captured in the TIARA.

In Appreciation

In January, members of the TIARA staff and associates could finally relax and savour the joy of accomplishment—the TIARA had been completed. The TIARA's completion was realized only after many endeavors on the part of its loyal supporters. The time and trouble they donated will never be repaid, therefore I would like to take this opportunity to say "thank you" to them.

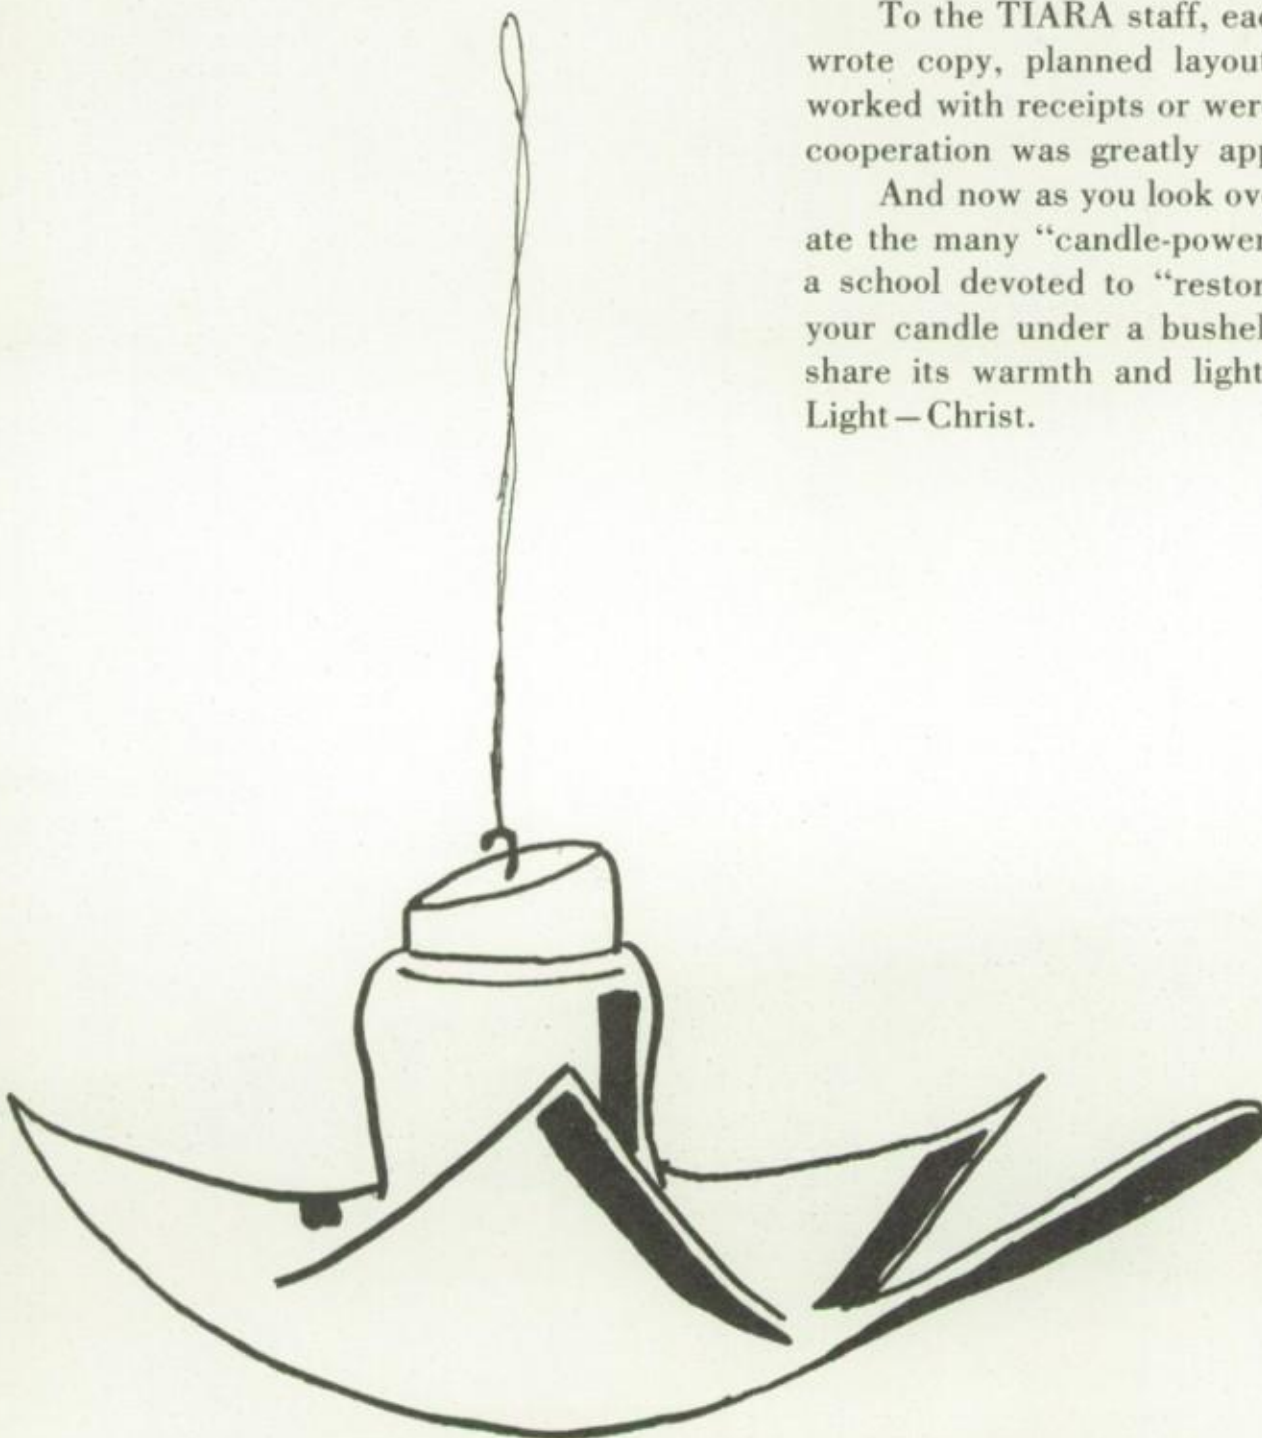

Thank you, Father Cranham for making this book possible. Miss Peggy Boland, your office assistance was indispensable. Students and members of the Faculty your cooperation on those trying days that pictures were taken, was greatly appreciated. Pace Studio and Mr. B. Pottinger, you captured our school on film for which we thank you. Mr. Jon Nelson your visits were of great benefit to us and with your company, Inter-Collegiate Press, the publishers of this book, we were very pleased. Mr. Englund, you and your assistants kept the Journalism room clean and in order, which made work easier for the staff.

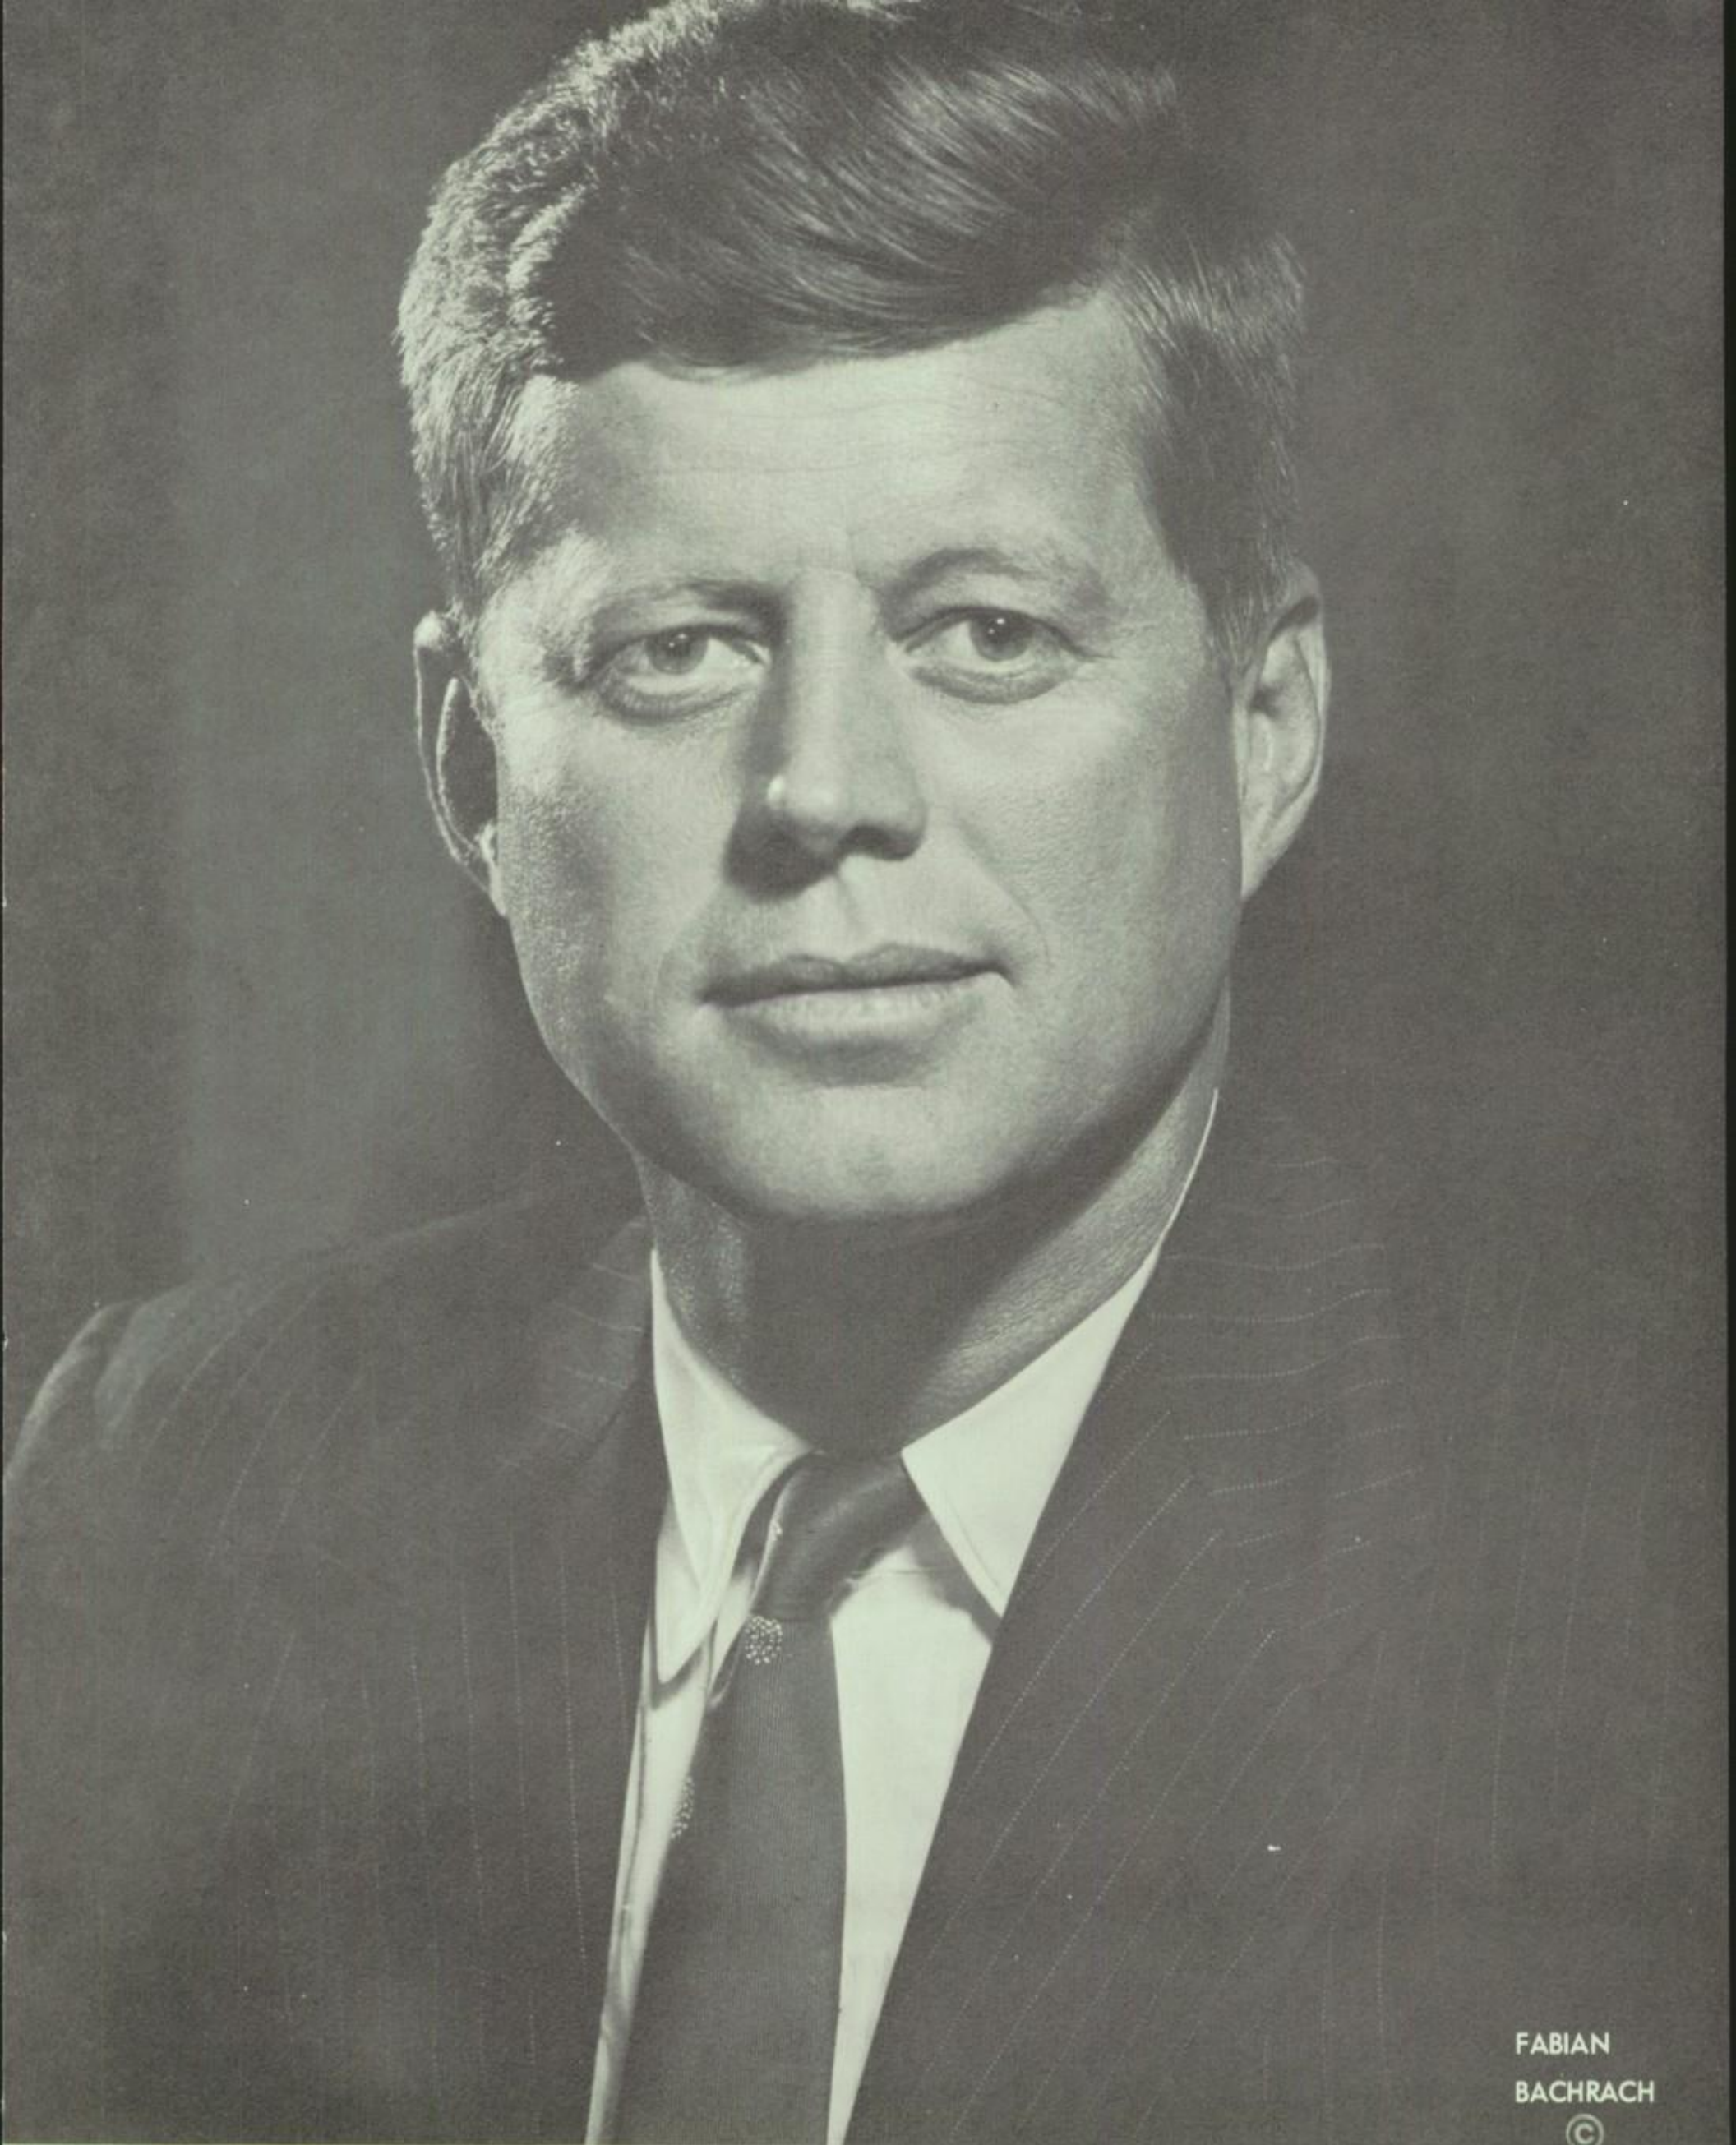

To the TIARA staff, each and every one of you, whether you wrote copy, planned layouts, identified pictures, typed, drew, worked with receipts or were a staff photographer, your help and cooperation was greatly appreciated and did not go unnoticed.

And now as you look over this work of the past year, appreciate the many "candle-power" required to establish and maintain a school devoted to "restore all things in Christ"; do not hide your candle under a bushel—but let it glow that someone may share its warmth and light and so share with us the Eternal Light—Christ.

Nancy,
We've been through a lot of years together and you are as sweet as ever.

How you always!! (and boys
don't always count!)

Good Luck
